

Review of: "Enhancing Business Model Resilience in the Machine Tools Industry: A Case Study of ABC Company"

Mikael Collan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is not fit for publication at this time and needs to be enhanced in several ways. Firstly the introduction must highlight the what, why, how, and relevance & novelty of the research. There is no positioning of the research or explanation of the research focus to speak of here. Furthermore a literature review or a walk-through of relevant literature is needed to ground the research. The concepts and risks found just pop-up without explanation or basing them in previous literature.

Methodology used is not explained and the fit of the business model canvas as a tool to help in understanding the main issues here is not really explained. The validity and credibility of the results presented is not in place as the paper does not explain how one has come to the results (the plan).

Much work is required to make this paper scientific.