

Review of: "Unraveling Populism: Senator Fraser Anning and the Australian Political Landscape"

Catherine Macmillan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This was a very interesting paper on an important topic, but it lacked academic rigour. Firstly, only a single source was used. Secondly, there is no definition of populism, nor an attempt to discuss the academic literature on this topic. Finally, the article would, in my opinion, be much improved if it were backed up by a discourse analysis (perhaps using critical discourse analysis?) of a selection of Anning's speeches.