

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Hyperinsulinism due to short chain 3-hydroxylacyl-CoA dehydrogenase deficiency

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base.

Hyperinsulinism due to short chain 3-hydroxylacyl-CoA dehydrogenase deficiency.

ORPHA:71212

Hyperinsulinism due to short chain 3 hydroxylacyl-CoA dehydrogenase (SCHAD) deficiency is a recently described mitochondrial fatty acid oxidation disorder characterized by hyperinsulinemic hypoglycemia with seizures, and in one case fulminant hepatic failure.