As a perspective paper, this provides some food for thought and further discussion. However, as an academic paper, there is some work to be done, particularly in terms of the depth and breadth of the literature used; the source support for statements; the justification and depth of methodological discussion; the discussion of the themes, underpinning the significance of the research, and the pulling together of themes in a more emotive conclusion which has a more substantial discussion of further recommendations. Thank you for sharing, and I hope these comments help you strengthen the contribution.
