

Review of: "Integrated decision-making model to enhance the employee-oriented built environment in urban green buildings"

Andrzej Pacana¹

¹ Rzeszów University of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is factually correct. It is also a scientifically up-to-date article. The article deals with the issue of green urban buildings, and this is a growing construction movement. The goal and chosen methods are correct. Since the article presents the general ideology of the impact of green buildings, it seems advisable to expand the section plans for the future. Currently, the study ends with the introduction of assumptions to create a decision-making model. It is a valuable model, but its practical verification is necessary. I would suggest the Authors to add more up-to-date literature items in Table I. Currently, the latest item of literature is from 2018 (5 years ago). If possible, Figures VIII and IX should have an enlarged font. In general, congratulations on the article.