

Review of: "Traditional soap plants used in hand hygiene, can play an important role in curbing infectious diseases including COVID-19. So why is there so little research?"

Shama Sadaf¹

¹ Lahore College for Women University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is a case study of a soap plant, not a research paper or article, in which the author inserts his or her own viewpoint.

The pronouns "I" and "My" are not necessary in the introduction or the abstract.

It is necessary to write Objective, Methodology, and Results (if it is a research article) among other things, so the Abstracts must be improved.

Citations are not properly formatted.

Writing the study's purpose and relevance should be in the last paragraph of the introduction.

The conclusion is poorly stated and does not require any citations.

References should be written in journal format.