Review of: "A Proposed Heuristic for Guessing Distributions"

Hening Huang

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I read two versions of this paper. I think it is interesting and well written. In particular, version 2 is a significant improvement over version 1. The authors have clearly stated the scope of the paper and the assumptions used. The proposed methodology is sound and can be used as a first-order approximation based on limited (minimal) information. I recommend publishing it as is.