Thank you for the opportunity to review this article.

I think that the research has an aspect that will contribute to the field. but there are some parts that need to be revised. These parts are presented below.

1. An introduction to the literature was made and then the purpose was stated. At this point, it is thought that the purpose should be removed and the literature should continue. (first paragraph)
2. It is thought that it would be more appropriate to include the information in the second paragraph of the introduction in the discussion section. (second paragraph)
3. The purpose is again emphasized in the third paragraph of the introduction. It should be revised to avoid repetition. (third paragraph)
4. Paragraph 6 is treated as the discussion section of the research. Therefore, it is considered that the paragraph should be revised.
5. The introduction should be revised in general and the purpose of the study should not be repeated frequently during the revision. Contribution to the field and original value should be emphasized.
6. The method part of the study is well designed but there is too much detailed information. This detailed information should be reduced.

It is thought that this research will be useful in the relevant interventions.
