

Review of: "Transfer Prices and Compensation: an Activity-Based Costing Approach in the Telecommunications Industry"

Narentheren Kaliappen¹

¹ Universiti Utara Malaysia

Potential competing interests: The author(s) declared that no potential competing interests exist.

Well-written case study. This case study shows how Time-driven Activity-based Costing can control product profitability. This lets the organisation motivate executives by setting motivating targets and transfer pricing. This case is excellent for in-class use and management, operations, and accounting exams.