I believe the article covers a very relevant and interesting topic, and has the potential to provide a valuable contribution, nevertheless, I believe this current version is kind of incomplete, missing a few important points. I strongly suggest to review the item 2, which in fact seems to have an error in the second paragraph. In any case, I believe this is a key section of the paper herefore I recommend a more in depth analysis of outsourcing. The continuing sections are ok, but I missed a conclusion, discussing the proposed theme and wrapping up the paper providing some context based on the study. I also failed to identify all references listed, and suggest the use of more and more recent references to enrich the study.
