The article presents a topic of interest covering the contemporary reality of President Regulation 120/2022 with a focus on the real implementation of the population's human rights as a result of different infrastructure projects. The theme is original and necessary, and the analysis is well elaborated; however, a better and more detailed description of the process that led the country (Republic of Indonesia) to implement this integrated system of projects with a bias towards the human rights of the population is required.
