

Review of: "Examining Water Use and Sanitation Practices in Rural Schools of Chegutu District, Mashonaland West Province, Zimbabwe"

Arinao Murei

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

- Organize content into clear sections with descriptive headings for improved readability and navigation. you may remove literature background and add that information on introduction or use it to support your discussion.
- Conduct a detailed analysis of findings, highlighting key trends and discussing implications for meaningful insights. You may remove the section under results and discussion as it is further explaining your methods.
- Carefully proofread and edit to eliminate grammatical errors and enhance overall readability and credibility.
- Incorporate literature from recent studies to support current issues and enhance the relevance of the study.
- Introduce a dedicated discussion section for a more comprehensive interpretation of results, including statistical significance.
- Discuss potential impacts of the winter season on findings, especially regarding water availability and hygiene practices.