Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript reports, in detail and in simple language, how to manage in aquaponics.

The abstract lays out only a few concepts and should be revised.

In general, the article resembles a review, because there are no experimental activities and statistically validated comparison tests.

However, to be a review, it does not link the text to bibliographic references.

So the manuscript has more potential for a popular article, which is very interesting for popularizing the technique presented.
