

Review of: "Impact of Men's Labour Migration on Non-migrating Spouses' Health: A Systematic Review"

Dorina Lauritano<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University of Ferrara

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This systematic review about impact of men's labour migration on non-migrating spouses' health is new, original, and is of interest to the field of medicine. There are any apparent errors of facts or logic. The title is adequately informative, grammar and style are clear and concise. The length manuscript is adequate, and the paper is well organized and written. Keywords are appropriate. Non-plagiarism has been found. This systematic review is well defined. The methods of this review are appropriate, precise. The number of the selected studies are adequate. The methods are fully described. The results are presented in an appropriate manner. The references are cited correctly, listed in the required style and relevant literature is quoted. The use of tables and relative captions are appropriate. Overall scientific priority is high. So, this paper can be considered for publication in this journal.