Dear editor in chief,

The manuscript can be accepted for publication after making the minor corrections.

Dear authors, I trust that my advice will prove beneficial to you. I read your article that aims to investigate if Doppler ultrasound significantly improves the accuracy of varicocele diagnosis compared to a routine physical examination. The article is well-crafted, and the topic is interesting, yet it lacks originality.

1. Please rewrite the title to reflect all the information in the manuscript.
2. Please rephrase the abstract and make the aim of this study clearer.
3. The methods and results are written well.
4. The number of references is not enough for this full article.
5. Make sure that all values throughout the manuscript are true.

Thank you
