

Review of: "An accuracy test of Altman and Zmijewski accounting-based bankruptcy models"

John Fry¹

¹ University of Hull

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I think the subject matter is, in principle, interesting, but the paper itself could be improved. The introduction is a bit too listy. Some development or the ideas behind the development of the models in Section 2 would have been interesting. On Page 4, it is not obvious why the dataset used is interesting. The conclusions show a certain lack of vision, I think, with respect to interesting future work.