

Review of: "[Commentary] Toxic Leadership and Vicarious Bullying"

Ana Maria Rocha¹

¹ Universidade Católica de Angola

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Congratulations on the interesting article; that is quite relevant.

To improve it, I would like to suggest that the authors:

- Do not use 'I'/1st person, but write in an impersonal way;
- Clarify what they mean by 'neoliberal ideology' and where it takes place;
- It seems that, for the authors, toxic leadership is solely caused by societal variables (i.e., neoliberal ideology), lacking mention of individual and organizational variables that may contribute to the emergence of this type of leadership.