

Review of: "Lived Experience of School Leaders in Supervising during Remote Teaching"

Chunye Yang¹

¹ Wuhan Business University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is a fantastic topic to talk about for in the past three years, human beings all faced up with an enormous challenge. Yet it would be better if the study was done when the COVID-19 pandemic was ongoing, since a majority of the remote education has turned into face-to-face-instruction. The study is of value and contribution to this field.

Some of my personal recommendations and questions are as follows:

1. In the manuscript, the word "withdraw" in the sentence "Formal letters were sent to them informing them that this research is purely academic, no risk would be involved in the study, and they were at liberty to withdraw anytime." ,did you mean "refuse"?
2. In the data collection section, it would be better if the sample sizes were listed. And why did you choose such sizes?
3. In the literature review section, more of the Philippine situation should be focused and explain the importance of the manuscript, which means that it's necessary and pivotal to study such a topic here.
4. In the discussion section, more of the previous studies should be given so as to compare and support your research results.

Anyway, even though some sections should be perfected in the manuscript, it deserves publication for it is tightly related to education and school management.