

Review of: "Agritourism: a source for socio-economic transformation in developing economies"

Idowu Oladele¹

¹ University of KwaZulu-Natal

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

There is need for the restructuring of the paper for more effective logical flow. Literature review to come before the methodology. The benefits of agritourism, and Agritourism and Sustainable Development Goals should be before methodology.

There is need to make the methodology more robust to explain the inclusion and exclusion criteria and be definite how the methodology led to the conceptual framework. Table 1 should explain if features of agritourism are available and present in Zimbabwe contexts in terms of Security, facilities and logistics to support agritourism.

The conceptual framework discussions should overlap Table 1 in order to synergise the features and the framework and clearly highlight the transformation model.