

Review of: "Who Is Responsible for Preventing Children's Sexual Harassment?"

Argiro Trogaidou¹

¹ University of Western Macedonia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The abstract is an excellent starting point for understanding the scope and emphasis of the research. But expanding the content with additional precise data, statistics, and implications of the findings will considerably increase the overall effect and relevance of the study.

The author is highly advised to include more recent and relevant sources.

After a closer look of the paper, I can say that the aims and research questions are not expressed explicitly in the text.

In Methodology section, more detailed documentation of the data analysis procedure is required.

Results, there is a lack of clarity and structure.