Dear,

Firstly, I would like to thank you for the opportunity to leave some suggestions for the proposed article. Are they:

- 1) References: I advise you to check the existence of more recent studies that can support your findings with more up-to-date data both in the introduction and in the discussion;
- 2) Summary: There is a brief discussion of your findings and the final considerations of this study to guide the reader who is interested in your article. It is the main tool for disseminating your findings. It needs to be more complete and robust;
- 3) Throughout the text: You need to correct the final punctuation that must come after the parentheses where you cite the references;
- 4) Methodology: I suggest providing more detail on the study design adopted. I suggest presenting the following items – sample size calculation, data collection period, what was the interval between the two phases of data collection;
- 5) Conclusion: Describe the limitations of the study.
