First of all, thank you. In the introduction, you should give the purpose sentence right before the method.

In the data analysis, "According to the average calculation, below 2.5 was rated as "poor or negative perception," between 2.5 and 3.5 was rated as "good," and above 3.5 was rated as "very good." The statement is included. Did you determine this? If so, how did you determine it?

Before Table 6, you stated that it was significant according to marital status, occupation, and income level. It may be helpful for the reader if you give the sentence in more detail, such as those who are single or those with a low income.
