

Review of: "[Short Communication] Immunology of a Morbillivirus: Measles 1954 to 2023"

Nassor Mohamed¹

¹ John Snow (United States)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is well written, but I don't think it is correct to call it short communication since it is relatively long. I see a lot of abbreviations which are not commonly used, I am not sure if this is a strategy to make this article shorter or there are other reasons. I suggest to avoid using abbreviations which are not commonly used as this will make life difficult for readers to always go back and check the meaning of those abbreviations. Also, I don't see the essence of including some abbreviations like IT for Information Technology. Apart from that, the article is well written and I hope the Author will also consider some of the good comments from other reviewers which I don't want to repeat them.