

Review of: "A Review of Informal Employment Research"

Brenda Silupú<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidad de Piura

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article shows a review of informal employment. I consider that a review of the literature has been carried out, mainly in some developing countries, but there are works that explain the way in which women have sought through self-employment the way to survive adversity and combat poverty.

The link that exists between women and self-employment or self-employment that gives rise to entrepreneurship must be considered and in this regard there is extensive literature that supports the awakening of women in entrepreneurial activities of traditional businesses within informality.

In this regard, I consider that you should review the following literature

Williams, C. C., & Nadin, S. (2010). Entrepreneurship and the informal economy: An overview. Journal of Developmental Entrepreneurship, 15(04), 361-378.

Williams, C. C., & Horodnic, I. A. (2016). Cross-country variations in the participation of small businesses in the informal economy: An institutional asymmetry explanation. Journal of Small Business and Enterprise Development, 23(1), 3-24.

Williams, C. C., & Kedir, A. (2018). Evaluating competing theories of informal sector entrepreneurship: A study of the determinants of cross-country variations in enterprises starting-up unregistered. The International Journal of Entrepreneurship and Innovation, 19(3), 155-165.

Williams, C. C., & Kayaoglu, A. (2020). COVID-19 and undeclared work: Impacts and policy responses in Europe. The Service Industries Journal, 40(13-14), 914-931.

Williams, C. C., & Windebank, J. (2006). Harnessing the hidden enterprise culture of advanced economies. International Journal of Manpower, 27(6), 535-551.

Williams, C. (2021). E-formalisation in Europe. Available at SSRN 3944814.