

Review of: "The Imperative of a Comprehensive One Health Approach for Mosquito-Borne Disease Control in Indonesia"

Adriana E. Flores¹

¹ Autonomous University of Nuevo León

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper discusses the One Health approach in general terms but falls short in detailing practical, actionable strategies specific to Indonesia's context, which is critical for policy and implementation discussions. Some sections of the manuscript may benefit from tighter editing to improve clarity and avoid redundancy. The manuscript could be strengthened by acknowledging and addressing potential challenges or criticisms of the One Health approach in the context of mosquito-borne disease control. In summary, while the manuscript tackles a pertinent issue, it needs to deepen its analysis, broaden its reference base, and offer more concrete, context-specific insights and strategies to elevate its academic contribution and practical relevance.