

Review of: "Acacia Pycnantha Gum Exudates Recognised As a Traditional Food in Two Countries May Have Economic Potential"

M. S. Córdova-Aguilar¹

¹ Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is original for its approach to finding the economic potential of Acacia Pycnantha gum exudates. However, from the abstract and introduction, it must be presented as a short review. Therefore, the aim of the manuscript must be set clearly from the beginning. This allows you to fit the content of the text with the proposed title. As a review, the text is very brief and requires deep improvement in structure and writing. I suggest including more information on chemical characterization, possible methods for improving the extraction, mentioning equipment and processes, methods of preserving and uses, as well as evidence on health benefits. It would also be very enriching to establish a comparison of this rubber with the other commercial ones in the form of tables.

The conclusions must be more specific and related to the review and state of the art in the theme.