

Review of: "Knowledge, Attitudes, and Practice (KAP) Study for Reducing Invalid Vaccine Doses in Routine Immunization: A Cross-Sectional Study in Urban Slums of Bangladesh"

Sri Suryawati¹

¹ Universitas Gadjah Mada

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is a well written interesting study. Invalid vaccine doses do alter public health service outcomes and drain lots of financial and human resources for revaccinations. There are publications on this topic, but experiences from Bangladesh is invaluable. I would strongly agree with the editor's decision to accept the manuscript. The discussion section could be made more attractive by raising the health outcome and financial consequences as the results of invalid vaccine doses.