Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The content of the article does not match the title. The article does not discuss Islamic epistemology in detail as stated in the title.
2. The article does not present the author's analysis of scientific epistemology in Islam and its relation to modern scientific epistemology.
3. Apparently, this article is not finished yet because the content is incomplete, and the references are also incomplete.

My advice: sharpen your analysis of scientific epistemology in Islam and enrich it with various literature, then compare it with modern scientific epistemology.
