*The article should have a standard and academic language. So "this article argues" vs "I argue" must be revised and one of them must be used throughout the whole text.

*The article has a very long abstract and introduction section is missing.

*The citations in the beginning can be provided later on, in the literature review section not under abstract heading.

*Michael Billig's concept of banal nationalism must be put under "Nationalism and modernism" section.

*Conclusion must be more encompassing and a robust summary of the key findings / analysis must be provided.
