The article is a short introduction on possible impact on AI on human creativity. it is well writtem and with a good bibliography.

The paragraph "Always scrutinize" could be extended and less generical, adding some example of how AI could be a threat and what are the counter-solutions (considering a broader definition of AI, the COMPAS systems implemented in many US jurisdictions could be an example of a biased use of tdcnology). Without those kinds of example, the risks of being tautological is very high.
