

Review of: "Implicit and Explicit Modelling: Case Study of EMU (Eastern Mediterranean University) Teacher Educators' Perceptions and Practice"

Işıl Günseli Kaçar¹

¹ Middle East Technical University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This research study highlights characteristics of effective teacher educators. It also reveals important insights into the development of a professional teacher educator identity. The investigation of the teacher educators' perceptions and practices regarding explicit and implicit modelling is a significant but neglected field of research in teacher education. The author might consider stating the participant selection criteria and providing demographic information regarding the participants in the study, as well as information on their educational backgrounds and teaching experiences. In addition, in the results section, she might indicate the main and sub-themes in the study in a tabular format. Furthermore, she might inform the readers of the limitations and offer some further research areas. She could consider elaborating on the recommendation section. Finally, the reference section needs to be revised so that all the listed references are aligned with APA 6 style conventions.