

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Fibrofolliculoma

National Cancer Institute (NCI)

Source

National Cancer Institute (NCI). Fibrofolliculoma.

A benign tumor of the hair follicle that appears as a small, whitish papule.

Fibrofolliculomas are typically found on the face, ears, neck, and upper torso. They are pathognomonic for Birt-Hogg-Dubé syndrome, a hereditary condition associated with the development of kidney cancer.