

Review of: "Blockchain EV Payment Systems: A Systematic Literature Review in Retail Energy Trading"

Raquel Carvalho<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidade Catolica Portuguesa

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Although I am not a native speaker of English, I understand that the text needs formal revision.

The methodological explanation is extensive and shows thoroughness, although it is poorly explained what criteria were established to prevent bias in the decisions of the three people involved in the selection of articles.

Substantively, I understand that the paper is not ready for publication. The topic is relevant, up-to-date and raises interesting issues. However, the text enters the theme without prior explanation of terms and concepts so technical associated with Blockchain. Moreover, the issues and results are not sufficiently detailed.

I understand that the improvement of these issues and others that have already been pointed out may lead to an interesting paper for future publication.