

Review of: "Academic Integrity in Poland: A Culturally Sensitive Code of Ethics Proposal"

José Soto¹

¹ Universidad del Norte

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Hi Editor

Thanks to the editor for allowing me to read this good work. The authors have written a paper in which they describe in detail each important moment of their research, for which I congratulate them. However, I consider making some adjustments for better understanding and clarity for the readers of this paper.

I consider that the paper "Academic Integrity in Poland: A Culturally Sensitive Code of Ethics Proposal" should be accepted, because it presented an interesting work and explain the main ideas and phases of this research. Furthermore this paper may accept subject to minor revisions.

I suggest making an introduction after each title for greater understanding and ease of reading the paper. I recommend giving a somewhat quantitative context regarding the problem and describing the most common actions of plagiarism and copying. I also recommend making a brief comparison about the problem with respect to other countries with cultural similarities with Poland.

I recommend including behavioral tendency in this problem. I suggest highlighting the achievements in this work more explicitly. As well as, the aspects that could not be worked on due to the controversy of the issue in Polish society.

Best regards,