This study investigates the relationship between corporate social responsibility and corporate social performance within the service-based enterprises sector in Zimbabwe. The paper needs major revision based on the following shortcomings:

- The paper requires comprehensive reorganization and restructuring.
- The paper needs professional proofreading.
- The presentation of the problem is not very clear and should be improved.
- The research and results models (figure 1+figure 2) are very complex and do not serve their purpose properly. Please simplify them.
- The authors provided numerous hypotheses (10 hypotheses), complicating the study and its objectives. Hypotheses 5-10 require robust justification.
- The methodology sections should be better structured.
- Descriptive information tables should be combined.
