

Review of: "[Case Report] Challenging Detection of Latent Tuberculosis in a Patient Undergoing High-Dose Corticosteroid Therapy for Acute Hemolytic Anemia and Rhupus Arthropathy"

Venkat Ramesh¹

¹ Apollo Health City

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript is well written. However, I think the title and the text should make the following changes. This is not latent tuberculosis. This is definitely active tuberculosis with the symptoms of significant weight loss and clinical and microbiological evidence of tuberculosis. Additionally, I would like to know if any nucleic-acid amplification testing was performed to test for rifampin resistance. Did the culture grow Mycobacterium tuberculosis?