Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is poor in its arguments. There is no sign of a correlation between smartphone use and social sharing. More arguments are necessary to have evidence of the correlation.

If possible, replace the references that are older (more than five years).

Please explain which bases are used to find the 50 articles in the methodology. And why the number 50? (Why no 40 or 70?)

The article has an interesting theme and should be explored more.
